The resources below help you with your research. You will need to cite your sources in a work cited page which can be easily created using EASYBIB.

Databases – when searching in databases be sure to use “key words” not phrases or sentences.

- World History in Context
- Gale Virtual Reference Library
- Britannica Annals of American History - Primary Source Documents

Websites

- BBC - History - World War I
  An extensive, media-rich site covering social as well as military aspects of the war. From the U.K.'s original public service broadcaster.
- The First World War
  The companion site to a television documentary series from Britain's state-owned Channel 4. Nicely organized into a number of useful categories and sub-categories that are easy to navigate.
- The Great War from PBS
  This is the companion site to PBS' program on World War I, it features an interactive timeline and maps and locations.
- FirstWorldWar.com
  An outstanding resource featuring many photos, primary documents, and articles pertaining to relevant events before, during and after the war. Please read the site editor’s disclaimer before proceeding to the rest of the site.
- The Great War Society
  The Great War Society studies all aspects of World War I and its legacy for the twentieth century. It features pages specifically created for students and researchers of the War.

World War I: Trenches on the Web

World War I: Trenches on the Web is a very comprehensive site on the First World War. It features a rich online library and focuses primarily on the military aspects of the War.

Treaty of Versailles, 1919